Lomonosov was a Russian scientist and writer who made important contributions to literature, education and science. Among the discoveries was the atmosphere of Venus, His interest lay in chemistry, physics, optics, geography, history and art. His poetry helped to develop the modern Russian language.

Lomonosov was born in the village of Denisovka near Kholmogory in the far north of Russia. His father, first a fisherman, eventually bought a ship and began transporting things from Arkhangelsk to other places. When Mikhail was ten, his father decided that his son was old enough to help him.

However, young Lomonosov was not interested in the family business. Learning what was he wanted. His neighbor had taught him to read and he spent as much time as he could with books, among which there was a grammar book and a book of arithmetic. The knowledge he got at home was not enough for Lomonosov and in 1730, at nineteen he left the village and joined the caravan travelling to Moscow.
